Caution: Double check the website you entered.

Bright Indian is an independent information directory, not an official Government of India website. Verify website authenticity before sharing personal information, uploading documents, or making payments.

How to use this master directory

Every record uses the eight requested fields: Portal / Service Name; Official Website URL; Government Level; Jurisdiction or State name; Category; Ministry or Department Name; Key Uses / Services (Separated by ;); and Portal Description.

Part I contains 182 direct national / central portal entries. Part II contains 36 main State / Union Territory portal entries. Part III contains 864 official IGOD search links covering 24 topics across all 36 States / UTs.

Important distinction: the 864 state/UT topic links open an official Government of India directory search, not a guaranteed direct service application page. Open the result, confirm the responsible department, and then use the department's own URL for a final Bright Indian service entry.

The source directory is useful for discovery, but not every destination was individually live-tested during this compilation. Websites can move, redirect, require login, or change processes. Re-check the URL and its official status before publishing it.

For the category field, "direct portal" describes a curated portal entry; "directory lookup" explicitly identifies a search link. Do not count lookup pages as completed direct service websites.
